Jane Wolfe is an established children's author whose published titles include Farm Machines Pop-Up, Whose House? and Who's Hiding?. Tors Benham is a popular illustrator of children's books.

When I received this book the push button to hear the cow moo was like any other toy sitting on a shelf with a push button, worn out and the moo sound was sickly sounding, you can't change the batteries so it's useless and I have yet to give it to my granddaughter. I don't think she'll even like it because the sound effect doesn't work. Made in China too so it's to be expected, buy cheap you get what you pay for.

My 2 year old granddaughter loves cows, for whatever reason. I had to get this for her and she loves it.

My daughter LOVES when she makes the cow moo. It took her a few attempts, which I appreciate it not being overly sensitive.

A two year old loves cows---don't know why---but this is not the favorite book----

Much loved by my grandson

Beware of your eardrums...This cow is crazy! The noise is a little louder than just obnoxious. Would otherwise be a decent book as my son loves cows.

CUTE for a toddler but get ready for them to be button happy! The smiles on their face will be worth it!

a really fun book
