Prof. Ron Van Clief, 10th degree Red Belt, has established twenty-five martial arts schools in the U.S. and eighteen other countries. He has appeared, or starred in, more than forty motion pictures, been a stunt man, a policeman in New York, and a United States Marine.

This is a treasure that every young person who is interested in martial art should have. You would be surprised at the depth of knowledge each martial artist had. After you read this book you will find that mix martial arts didn't start with Bruce Lee. This book is a need to have for your library.

One of the most interesting books I've ever read this book will guide me further in the martial path and make even more proud to be an African American. THANK MASTER RON VAN CLIEF!!!!!!

Great! Thank you very much!

Very informative volume. I enjoyed learning about the African American contribution to the Arts, that is too often left out of publications. Here are most of the early pioneers, some are no longer with us, but accomplishments are really outstanding! I recommend this book to any Martial Artist, with a good insight of one of the greatest black masters of our time.also mention of other great master who never got there due!

Hey, This book is really good for all you martial-artists out there. I especially liked this book, because my sensei is in it, but also because it was written well, and really shows that everybody is equal, and everyone can succeed!! My sensei is Thomas R. Joiner. He is in this book, has 5th degree black belt, and has written many excellent books such as: "The Warrior as Healer", and "Chinese Herbal Medicine Made Easy". I would recommend those books for people looking for alternative to western medicine. This book was great, and you should get it!

I only want to know if Gerald Orange is in this book..He was my teacher in NYC many decades ago.. His Nick was THE MONGOOSE.. Does any one Know???
